

THIS MONTH AT NU

TKE ATTAINS 2ND HIGHEST GPA AT CAL

The Nu Chapter has done it again! For the Spring Semester of 2011 the Nu Chapter had a cumulative GPA of 3.48, a move up from last semester's 3.44, and well above the all-men's average GPA of 3.25. This rise in GPA follows a continuing trend at the chapter of level of academic excellence – a particular difficult task as not only has the chapter GPA gone up but so has its size, with 78 Fraters TKE is now the largest chapter on campus – and as a statistician would tell you, the more people you have the closer to the average you are likely to be. These accomplishments can be attributed to the hard work of our undergraduate fraters and the chapter's robust scholastic program. Thanks to your generous donations the chapter provides regular study hours, a cataloged chapter library and study room, a test and lab archive, and six different chapter level scholarships. With a 3.48 GPA TKE is now ranked second out of all 32 fraternities and fourth out of all 61 Greek letter organizations at Cal. Next time you're by the Chapter House make sure to congratulate our collegiate fraters for a job well done. Look out for July's edition when we spotlight this year's scholarship recipients.

BLOGS, BLOGS, BLOGS....

Well really there's only two, but "blogs, blogs" would have sounded weird. There are several Tekes traveling the world this summer and they want to make sure you know every detail of their lives, well maybe not every detail...

Michael Cerussi is doing his very own Euro Trip and is keeping everyone informed before he starts work with Budweiser on his return. He stated in Dublin and he's made it to Berlin so far – and apparently he can't find a barber and he's lost his razor – so make sure to check out his zany actions and even crazier hair. You can find it at <http://cerussi.wordpress.com/>

Meanwhile a few thousand miles to the southeast in India David Herschorn is working in a cancer hospital in Kolkata helping to save poor Indians with cancer. Well, don't worry he's not actually doing any medical stuff himself, he's setting up their marketing and communications strategy. You can follow him and his fellow Berkeley students in India at:

THE UNITED STATES OF TKE

Every wonder where all those Nu Chapter Teke's have gone? This month we searched through the alumni database to find those young alumni who have ended up scattered across the country, forming our very own United States of TKE. Besides all those Tekes who couldn't be pulled from California's alluring Pacific Ocean, tepid temperatures, and odd lack of participation of any kind, Nu Chapter is all over the country allowing our chapter to be the best from sea to shining sea (and even in the Midwest). Take a look of the stories of these three fraters in exotic places like Maryland, Illinois, and North Carolina.

PAUL WINZER '07: MARYLAND

Greetings, fellow Tekes. Just a quick update on my situation since graduating. I've been living in Maryland for the past three years. Since that time I've held a job as an AmeriCorps VISTA youth volunteer coordinator and an after school tutor through the Mental Health Association.

Currently I'm a member of the Maryland Conservation Corps with the Maryland Park Service. I'm certified as a First Responder in the state of Maryland and a Type II wildland fire fighter nationwide. My life's ambitions are grander and more complete because of my time at Nu Chapter. I became more service-oriented and learned a lot about myself, and I have to thank many of you for that. I was also very happy to hear that my sister was voted TKE Sweetheart a few years after I graduated.

TONY SHAN '06: ILLINOIS

After graduating Cal in 2006, I moved across the bay to San Francisco and worked as a merchandise buyer and planner in corporate retail for 3 ½ years. Due to the recession at the time, opportunities to move up the corporate ladder were limited. In fall 2009, I decided to apply to business school to get my MBA. I moved to Evanston, Illinois in August 2010 to attend the Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University. Having lived in California most of my life, moving to the Midwest and enduring the brutal winter was a big adjustment. But TKE definitely taught me to be flexible and roll with the punches. Joining TKE helped with developing my interpersonal and communication skills. Living in a house with 40 guys facilitated relationship building and fostered open dialogues. As the second Hypophetes since re-chartering, TKE also gave me very valuable leadership experiences. At the time, our house was still under remodeling in spring 2004 when I took office. With no space to gather, I had to find creative ways for brothers to bond. From planning overnight retreats in Santa Cruz, Skyzone in the RSF to starting TKE Assassins, my goal was to grow our brotherhood. Those were great experiences for me to hone my organizational and planning skills, which I use almost daily in professional settings and now in business school. This summer, I am actually back in San Francisco for my summer internship. I am working as a marketing manager at Shutterfly Inc. for its cards and stationary business. I will return to Chicago in the fall to finish my two-year MBA program. My goal post business school is to return to San Francisco and either continue to work in tech marketing or work in consulting for Bain or The Boston Consulting Group. I want to give a special shout out to the Shan Clan, you guys are awesome!

KEVIN OKIMURA '10: NORTH CAROLINA

My view of TKE while I was an undergraduate member was that it was a place where anyone was welcome as long as you had a passion for building brotherly bonds and were sincere in your words and actions. Not only did Teke make my undergraduate experience, but it has remained as a big presence in my post-graduation life. I'm currently residing in Raleigh, North Carolina where I work for Merck Pharmaceuticals in a rotational development program. In my previous work rotation, I spent eight months in Philadelphia where I took frequent trips to Washington, D.C. to spend time with fraters of Nu Chapter. In DC, Tekes joined me in doing such things as watch Cal football almost take a win over Oregon, going to see Benny Benassi, and watching the epic Piranha 3D. I also took trips to NYC to meet up with fraters Dula, Wilder, and Schmidt. For the future, I plan to return to the Bay Area where I'm closer to family and friends, but not before exploring the east coast for a couple more years and hopefully living in or near NYC for a portion of that time.
